

User Stories: Matchmaking

PC: The PC Gamer, is looking for more competitive matches and partners to game with. The PC Gamer wants make money through gaming tournaments, and wants to meet like minded gamers. If ever the PC Gamer needs someone to tryout and be a key part of a team in a professional scene, they can search and easily set up tryouts. They intend on using the Matchmaking app for just that!

Console: The console gamer wants to matchmake with friends that have the same console as them to play at similar levels as each other. Currently, the console gamer has a few select friends that can only play at certain times. The console game would utilize the matchmaking feature to increase their friend circle, and ability to play with other console players. Whether they need a partner to spar with, or a fifth person to jump in a squad to beat a raid boss, the matchmaking app can help them do what they need.

Casual Gamer: The Casual Gamer is someone whose idea of fun is not the enjoyment of showing other people their ability to out-smart and out-play them, but rather laying back and playing a game that maybe revolves more around figuring something out with a group of friends. Maybe this person is older and can't keep up with the reaction time of the younger Gamers that dominate the market. With matchmaker, they can find a group of people just like them and not have to worry about other players not giving them a chance to even play.

Avid Gamer: The avid gamer is a passionate about what their gaming. They take it very seriously and want to match with gamers that are at their very best, so that they too can be better. They don't want any n00bs up in their matches. Avid gamers take pride in their machines and ant to flaunt it.

Card Games / DnD: Card games and tabletop RPG's are more popular than ever thanks to stranger things and social media. The only problem is finding people who want to play just as much as you. With this game you can find DMs and groups that will join your campaign or hold tournaments. Now go get that bread! Yeet that wheat! For the greater good! For brotherhood! FOR THE SWARM!

Lover Lurkers: Since the gamers are also matching with like minded gamers, this also will be a platform for sparking a relationship with another gamer. This user, wants to find a companion that they can not only play their own version of Smash, but also play video games with.

Three basic functions:

Real time matchmaking

Tournament finder

Love Making